GREEN DESIGN FOR OVER 3,000 YEARS!

Hand-woven rugs have been “green” long before the concept was even thought of. Our fine rugs are made entirely by hand with virtually no machinery. The wool of the pile and the cotton of the backing are completely renewable. The fibers are combed by hand and spun by hand using a foot pedal for power. Natural vegetal dyes are used and the rugs are woven and finished by hand.

THE FINEST MATERIAL IS ALSO THE MOST ENVIRONMENTALLY-FRIENDLY

Natural wool is completely renewable, still the most durable - from lanolin's protective properties, easiest to maintain, softest, and the most colorful carpet fiber. In fact, wool is not only the finest rug-making material available, but also the most green.

THE PINNACLE OF RECYCLABILITY

Hand-woven rugs also provide the ultimate recycling opportunity; they last for decades and therefore can be passed on for generations. A refreshing idea in today's overly-disposable world.

ENVIRONMENTAL BENEFITS:

- Absorbs toxins from the air
- Non-flammable
- Biodegradable, and renewable resource
- Natural insulator
- Hand-spun yarns retain protective lanolin properties
- Dust mite resistant
- Water resistant - doesn't require Scotchguard
- Wool is sourced from sheep that graze freely with a diet that is 100% natural - no artificial supplements are used.
